She'll Get a Charge Out of This!

This dress is made up of 448 white circuit boards -- or more, depending on the modesty of the wearer!

The Day-for-Night dress made its debut at the Siggraph Fashion Show Let's hope it'll lead to a rise in affordable, solar clothing in future!

Now That's a Grassy Phone

In today's rapid consumerist society, consumption comes into question. How durable do we want our devices to be when they become near obsolete in 5 years? The source materials that make up their build often take hundreds of years to break down. An alternative ideology are disposable products made from natural sources. The Natural Year Phone is made of hay, sans screen and soft keys. The hard components get recycled while the hay is um. . . well I wouldn't smoke it.
