Welcome to Discover Your Greatness!

You have a special gift that is struggling to reach its potential. When one reaches the potential of their gift the world gets to share in your greatness.

Events of everyday clutter your mind, drain your energy and extinguish your passion that once burned hot. Day after day you let life events bury your special gifts and you rob the world of your greatness. My coaching will: guide you through a process that cleans up that clutter in your life, helps you define areas in your life that drains your energy and what area provides you energy. Once you clean up the clutter and understand your strengths, you can create clear goals you want to achieve.

We will develop a powerful relationship in the process that will not only bring to you powerful programs but will help you define that clutter. I will be a good listener, encourage your action, and help you focus on what is important.
